

ASGE UPDATE

Register now! ASGE's Annual Postgraduate Course at DDW® 2013

Registration is underway for ASGE's Annual Postgraduate Course "An International and Multidisciplinary Approach to Gastrointestinal Diseases in 2013: Patient Care at its Best," May 20, Orlando, Fla. Back to its popular, one-day format, and now on Monday, this course, led by course directors Todd H. Baron, MD, FASGE, and Vanessa M. Shami, MD, FASGE, will demonstrate how gastrointestinal endoscopy integrates with specialists in various fields to provide excellent, state-of-the-art care for gastrointestinal diseases. Save the date and plan to register by April 10 to receive a discounted rate. Register at www.ddw.org or visit www.asge.org for more information.

ASGE offers state-of-the-art hands-on training at DDW® 2013

ASGE offers attendees of the 2013 Digestive Disease Week® conference and opportunity to roll up their sleeves and learn side-by-side from endoscopy's experts in a series of hands-on sessions. These two-and-a-half hour sessions range from a variety of endoscopic topics such as colonoscopy, EMR/ESD, ERCP, and more! Make the ASGE hands-on sessions a part of your DDW schedule and register today. Don't delay, as sessions fill up quickly! Register at www.ddw.org or visit www.asge.org for more information.

Grab your team and head to ASGE's Endoscopic Resection Techniques: Practice of EMR & ESD course

You and your team will benefit from this hands-on training course taking place on March 1-2, 2013, in Oak Brook, Ill. This course features cutting-edge techniques for endoscopic mucosal resection (EMR) and endoscopic submucosal dissection (ESD). These procedures are the two biggest advances in endoscopy therapy over the past 10 years, and to perform these in a safe manner, your team must be knowledgeable of the principles of mucosal resection and indications for EMR and ESD. Register as a team and save. Register at www.asge.org today.

ASGE's Small Bowel Summit and Capsule Endoscopy User's Course—A Weekend of Everything Small Bowel!

Beginning March 15 in Oak Brook, Ill, the Capsule Endoscopy User's course will provide intermediate skills for the diagnosis and management of obscure GI bleeding, Crohn's disease, and other clinically relevant disorders of the small bowel. This course is intended to provide intensive hands-on education utilizing either the PillCam® system or the EndoCapsule system. Didactic lectures with case presentations will be offered with opportunities for attendees to review actual full cases of interest with faculty guidance. The Capsule Endoscopy User's course is a precursor to the Small Bowel Summit, March 15-16, Oak Brook, Ill, which covers all clinical aspects of small bowel disease. Hands-on sessions will include double, single, and rotational endoscopy; enteral stent, PEG, and PEJ; balloon dilation and balloon assisting devices, and much more. Register for both and save at www.asge.org.

GI Endoscopy for the Established Clinician—The Boutique Experience

Designed exclusively for the advanced endoscopist. . . . Delve into the minds of endoscopy's masters and learn how they would handle difficult cases in an intimate and collegial atmosphere. Be among one of 30 endoscopists who get the opportunity to spend a weekend with the GI endoscopy experts, working side-by-side in hands-on training sessions, case-based sessions, and friendly social gatherings. Plus, you'll be among the first to explore the ASGE's new Institute for Training and Technology, the global home for endoscopy. For more information or to register, visit www.asge.org/endoscopyboutique.

Save the Date: The GO 2013 Conference is back in Chicago, IL!

Mark your calendars for GI Outlook 2013: The Practice Management Conference held on August 9-11, 2013 in beautiful downtown Chicago. New this year is the co-sponsorship with the AGA Institute, and unites the two societies together to bring one comprehensive and dynamic practice management conference to help GI physicians and their staff run the most successful practice, from small to large. For more information, visit www.asge.org/go.

Have You Visited the ASGE Online Learning Center Lately?

ASGE continues to update their Online Learning Center with exciting new educational activities. The following activities are currently available:

- Clinical Guidelines CME Activities—Test your knowledge on ASGE guidelines and earn CME credit.
- Endoscopic Learning Library videos On-Demand—Order videos, take a post-test, and earn CME online.
- Recorded sessions from past activities—Includes recorded sessions from the Annual Postgraduate Courses, separated into 1-hour CME activities by topic.
- Practice Management Resources—Resources related to coding and reimbursement are available for download.
- 2012 Video Forum and World Cup of Endoscopy videos