
ASGE UPDATE

Applications Due September 30 for 2023 ASGE Innovation Award

There's still time to apply for the 2023 ASGE Innovation Award, supporting innovative concepts to advance the practice of gastroenterology and patient care. A $10,000 and $5,000 award will be given to the top two applicants.

Members in both academic and non-academic practice settings are encouraged to apply at ASGE.org.

Digestibles Starts This Month, the Newest ASGE Educational Contest

Digest new GI content one small bite at a time. Digestibles is a fun, yet educational resource brought to you by ASGE and Olympus Corporation of Americas! It takes only a few minutes to review an image, video, or case study followed by selecting the best answer to a question. Receive immediate feedback on the correct answer and earn points along the way. So don't miss out on this quick, fun, and convenient way to enhance your GI knowledge!

Sign up at ASGE.org/Digestibles.

Expand Your Expertise This Fall with Upcoming Courses Available from ASGE!

Here are some highlights to grow your skill set:

- Endoscopy Live: Colonoscopy Symposium, September 1
- Advanced Endoscopy Fellows Program, September 16-17
- Therapeutic EUS for Advanced Endosonographers, September 17-18
- ASGE/JGES Primer and Advanced ESD Courses, September 23-34 and 25-26
- Improving Quality and Safety in Your Endoscopy Unit, October 1
- Postgraduate Course at ACG: Expanding the Scope of Fundamental and Advanced Endoscopy, October 21
- Advanced Endoscopic Lesion Resection, November 12
- 2023 Gastroenterology Reimbursement and Coding Update, November 19

Want to see our latest course offerings? Visit ASGE.org/Calendar for a full list of what's ahead.